

I. Cannot Be Divulged

1. Names of agents and sources and cooperating American organizations and contacts to whom we have pledged confidentiality.
2. Names of persons involved in Agency operations who would be subject to personal physical danger or extreme harassment if their names were to be publicly identified.
3. Details which would reveal the specific character and effectiveness of sensitive intelligence methods and techniques of collection, by technical and human means.

(For example, the numbers, locations, and instances of emplacement of agents within target organizations; or details concerning the locations of devices emplaced for technical collection of foreign intelligence; or details concerning the nature of technical collection devices which, if known, would permit targetted powers to take steps to deny us such collection; or details identifying the names and offices of collaborating foreign intelligence officials; or locations of sensitive installations used in the course of conducting intelligence activities.)

4. Details of the secure nature of the CIA communications systems, including wireless, teletype, secret writing, and special agent equipment.

II. Arguable R main/1 due w# links

1. Specific CIA records concerning covert action projects and details concerning inter-Agency or 40 Committee deliberations with respect to such projects.
2. Reports of the CIA Inspector General, or any other personal assignee of the DCI, concerning Agency activities, their effectiveness, and recommendations for their revision.
3. The facts relating to popular allegations of CIA abuses or mishaps that may involve sensitive on-going intelligence operations or foreign policy implications. Individual topics may be legitimately considered for outside review, but some are more sensitive than others and need to be settled case-by-case.

Approved For Release 2004/11/03 : CIA-RDP89B00552R000100110002-5

III. Can Be Divulged If Security Is Assured

1. Names of CIA employees under cover, though documents submitted for permanent Committee files would be sanitized to excise such names.
2. Authorizing directives, rules, regulations, SOP's relating to Agency missions, procedures and organization.
3. Budgetary data, cash-flow, and organizational details pertaining to the Agency including Agency use of proprietaries and other commercial arrangements required for its operations.
4. General descriptions of cooperating arrangements between U.S. and foreign intelligence services.
5. Finished intelligence assessments and estimates.
6. General descriptions of and rationales for security investigations and counterintelligence activity.
7. Appropriately sanitized copies of historical external reviews of the Agency and its activities.
8. Descriptions of internal Agency controls and external (Executive and Congressional) oversight of the Agency and its activities.
9. Access to CIA personnel under appropriate security arrangements and in consideration of their legal rights under the Constitution.
10. Access to all information releaseable under the Freedom of Information Act.

7 1